PRESS RELEASE

Exclusive After Festival Party at Belmont Arts Centre

For the second year Shrewsbury & Atcham Borough Council play host to the Teenage Kicks Festival in the Quarry. The free event runs from 12:00 midday to 6:00pm on Sunday 28th July 2005, with music, activities and sport for young people of all ages.

The live music from local Shrewsbury and Shropshire based bands continues the tradition of talented young people playing their own creative brand of rock music. Bands to be featured include; Shameless Faith, Ripcord, Survival of the Fittest, Sabaka, Polarian, and Funk outfit Gran Torino.

The party continues into the evening, with an Exclusive after-festival party at Belmont Arts centre with local DJ's Ronan Harvey. The Party starts at 7.30pm and concludes at 10.30pm. Tickets are £4.00 and are available from Nick Fisher at Shrewsbury & Atcham Borough Council (281141) or Belmont Arts Centre (243755) advanced booking is advisable, although some tickets may be available at the festival or on the door. Ticket will also be available via Beacon Radio, who will be running competitions during the week for you to win free entry into this exclusive music event in Shrewsbury.

Steve Cunningham, Community Regeneration Manager of Shrewsbury and Atcham Borough Council says; "We are really pleased to be in partnership with Belmont Arts to promote music venues and performance spaces for young people from the Borough". Steve added, "this is just the start of what promises to be very productive partnership."
